

Two local accidents injure several people

Several people were injured in two traffic accidents last week in and near Drayton Valley. On July 24 at 8 p.m., Grant Schell of Drayton

Valley was driving south on 50th street in his 1985 Dodge Ram as a 1978 GMC driven by Terry Osback of Edmonton turned left from Industrial Road to go north on 50th street. Going too far east, the front and rear tires on the passenger side of Osback's truck dropped off of the road where a new sidewalk was being put in.

Coming back onto the road, the truck swerved and the two vehicles hit almost head on, according to Cpl. Tom Turner of the Drayton Valley RCMP.

Also in the vehicle with Osback were David Letendre and Tod Coutureille, both of Edmonton.

The two banged up trucks from the accident near the Gulf station.

Glass in stomach

Coutureille received a broken collarbone and a piece of glass in the stomach from the collision. Osback had a cracked rib, cuts and bruises.

Schell and Letendre both received minor injuries. After being treated, both were released.

Later that week, Osback and Coutureille were released from the Drayton Valley hospital.

No charges are being considered at this time, said Turner.

Another accident on July 25, at 4:30 p.m., happened by the campground, 2 kilometres north of Drayton Valley.

A 1978 Chrysler driven by Karl Hillbom of Edmonton was hit from the rear by a 1975 Plymouth driven by Jeanette Burke.

Burke sustained a minor neck injury, said Turner.

Hillbom had stopped to make a left turn into the campground when the incident occurred.

"Charges are being contemplated," stated Turner.

Dog catcher needs more time to do job

By Frank Ryan

It's been a hectic week for Danny Carruthers, Drayton Valley's animal control officer.

In reply to an editorial in The Western Review last week about the dog problem, Carruthers and his staff picked up a number of dogs.

This included the Doberman who had chased several children in the St. Anthony school yard. The owner was contacted, the $30 fine paid and the dog was returned.

Unfortunately, about 80 per cent of the dogs caught in Drayton Valley have no license. These are kept for the required three working days and then are destroyed.

Carruthers is the first to admit that there is a dog problem in Drayton Valley. But, his hands are tied.

Under the terms of his employment with the town he is only paid to work 16 hours per week.

In May, when town council ordered a blitz in an effort to clean up the dog problem, Carruthers' hours were increased to 32 hours every other week. This resulted in 38 dogs being rounded up.

His monthly average now is 14 dogs. Besides the limited hours of employment, Carruthers, who has been catching dogs in Drayton Valley for five years, has been without a proper contract since the first of the year.

Add to this the fact that Drayton Valley pays their animal control officer $18 per hour while he receives $22.50 per hour in Evansburg and Wildwood and $20 per hour for his services in Warburg and Thorby.

Carruthers says the biggest problem is the people.

"They don't care when their dog is gone. They just go out and get another one," he says.

The biggest problem are the dogs running at large in town.

"You can't talk to the owners of these dogs," Carruthers explains.

The serious side of the dog problem in Drayton Valley includes three attacks on people in the last year, according to Carruthers.

And Councillor Bill Panice, who has "spoken out on the dog problem, plans to look into Carruthers' hours, his pay, the lack of proper contract and the three attacks on residents.

Panice has voiced on a number of occasions that the fine system should be revised. Now, an owner faces a $30 fine the first time his or her dog is caught. This increases to $40 for the second offence and $50 for the third and all other offences.

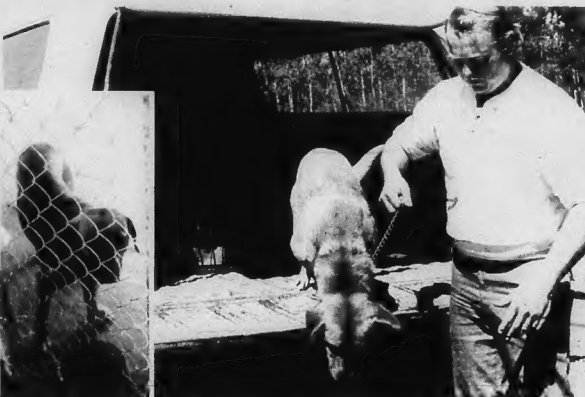

The dog problem, as it now exists, will likely be discussed when council meets Aug. 8.

Benz burned in Boscher blaze

A garage fire at the home of Robert Boscher of Drayton Valley, resulted in approximately $5,000 damage last week.

Two Mercedes Benz cars parked in front of the garage suffered about $3,500 in damages. Of the two vehicles, a Mercedes station wagon received the worst damage.

Constable Jeff Smith of the Drayton Valley RCMP said there were seven children ranging from four years to 13 years old who were "burning grasshoppers with gasoline" when the gas can caught fire. The mishap in the front corner of the garage occurred at 3 p.m. on July 25.

The children escaped injury and the fire department was called, which prevented more serious loss of property.

Andex Oilers

Long road ends

This is a very special weekend for a 13 and 14-year-old Drayton Valley baseball team.

The Andex Oilers will be playing in front of their hometown fans as one of the four best bantam A boys' baseball teams in Alberta.

It's been a long road to the provincials for the players and their coaching staff. They are to be commended for their dedication and all the publicity they have brought to Drayton Valley.

The rest of the community can do their part by attending the provincials this Saturday and Sunday at West Valley Park.

Teams from Sherwood Park, Olds and Taber will also be participating, and with them will come a lot of visitors to our town.

The Drayton Valley Minor Baseball Association, host for the provincials, will be showing off their facilities this weekend.

It will be the first big test for the new field, complete with the sod that was laid by volunteers in a weekend downpour.

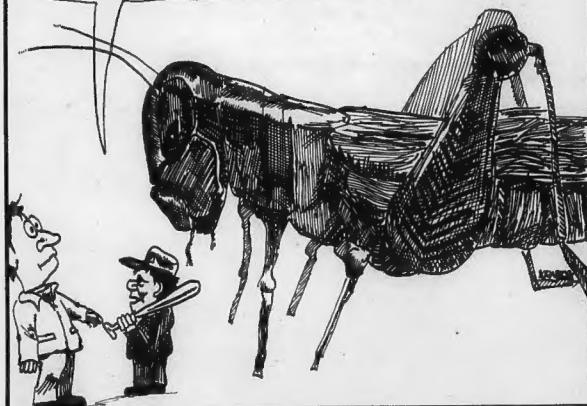

Unfortunately, there's nothing we can do about the grasshopper problem. Hopefully, they won't be too bad.

The weatherman will be expected to cooperate.

And the parents who have expressed their concerns over the lack of playing time should let the game be decided on the field. There's a time to air one's concerns, and it's not at the provincial championships.

To the Andex Oilers...GOOD LUCK!

He followed me home from the ball park,
can I keep him?

As many as five members of council may not run?

MEMORIES....that's all we have left of our association with the Red Deer Rustlers.

Believe it or not, the Alberta Junior Hockey League champion Rustlers who represented the province at inter-provincial play last season, have folded. For the past four or five years, the Rustlers' owners looked at losses between $35,000 and $45,000 per season. This year they threw in the towel.

It's rather unfortunate when a city of 52,000 people can't support a junior A hockey club.

For two years we handled the play-by-play of the Rustlers on CKRD. On another occasion, I handled the commentary and the interviews — which happened to be the year (1981) they won the Centennial Cup.

For six years I wrote the player profiles in the Rustler program and for two years was the team's official scorekeeper and announcer at home games.

If there was a thrill....it had to be following the team along the Centennial Cup trail that included trips to Penticton and Prince Albert. Throw in the opportunity of watching five of the Sutter brothers play in Red Deer.

This unexpected turn of events indicates that success isn't everything. In the Rustlers' case, success cost money. Money they don't have anymore.

Editor's Notes

Congratulations to Hal Anker, winner of the $300 gas barbecue at Carline Muffler in Drayton Valley. And, thanks to Carline Muffler manager Melvin Moltzon who asked us to make the official draw.

Things have been very quiet at the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce tourist booth due to the road closure on 50th Avenue. It might be a good time for the tourist committee to look at a better location for future years.

Are you interested in municipal politics? Rumblings indicate that as many as five members of town council won't be running in the next election.

Vicki Oster is a remarkable gal. On June 19 the Drayton Valley resident clipped off the end of three fingers in a lawnmowing accident.

A stay in hospital, some minor surgery and a lot of discomfort followed.

But through all this, she has shown tremendous determination.

We're glad to have Vicki on our team (office receptionist at The Western Review).

Fay Whatley is another lady who deserves recognition.

This very understanding lady has been a guiding force in the Jamie Platz saga. As a close friend of the Platz family, Fay Whatley has been there when the family needed a friend. She was also instrumental in the campaign to raise funds to send the 10-year-old to Mexico for treatment.

From all of us, thanks Fay.

We carried out a mini-gas survey last week and the product is available for 39.8 in Leduc, 39.4 at Calmar and Warburg, 42.4 at Alsiike and 41.8 in Drayton Valley. If you think that's bad — consider 59.4 at Dawson Creek, B.C.

Extra precautions

Amoco plays it safe with Brazeau well

By Lorne Christensen

Amoco is playing it safe.

The company is drilling a sour gas well near the Brazeau Dam and they are taking several precautions to prevent it from becoming a repeat of the Lodgepole disaster.

The sour gas well is located southwest of the dam and it should reach its target depth of 3,600 metres sometime in the next 10 days.

Amoco is taking precautions to prevent the possibility of a blowout.

"We're taking all the precautions we can to cut down on the probability," said Jim MacDonald, Amoco's drilling engineering supervisor.

Some of the precautions MacDonald was referring to include an exact "head count" of anyone on site.

Bryan Gourlay, a senior safety advisor with Amoco, says it is all part of their "emergency response plan."

"We can have a head count of exactly whose on location," Gourlay explained.

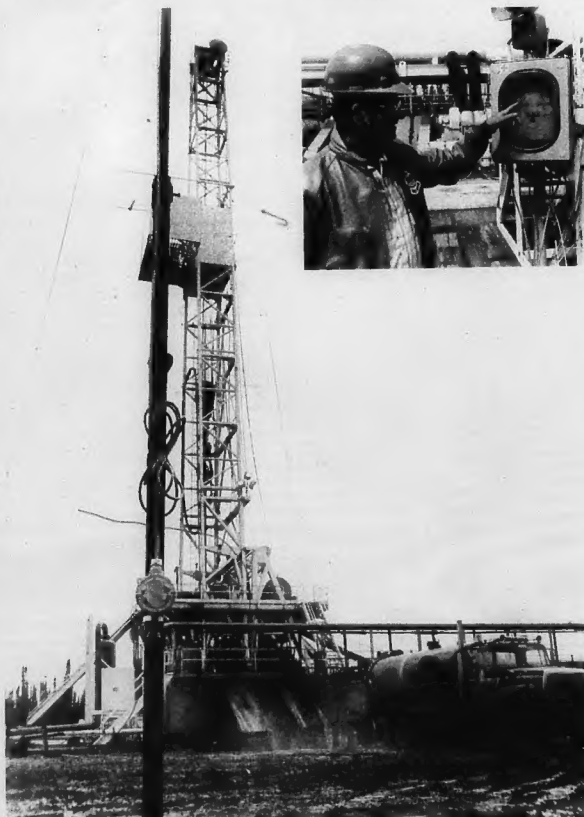

Other safety features of the operation include eight sour gas detectors on the site. Six of which are positioned on the rig with the remaining two on the site's parameter.

Along with this Gourlay pointed out that there are "more than enough" air packs available for the people on the site should sour gas be encountered. He said they were located at various positions around the site including to "briefing areas" where personnel would gather if sour gas was detected.

In the foreground of the Brazeau rig is a sour gas detector. The inset photo shows Bryan Gourlay pointing out another sour gas detector on the rig.

Other safety aspects at the well include having all the vehicles facing out with the keys in the ignition. Gourlay explained this would prevent accidents if rig personnel had to flee the area quickly.

In addition, there are several flags located around the rig so if a blowout occurs the workers can easily tell which direction the wind is blowing.

Also no one on site is allowed to have a beard, it would prevent them from getting a "proper seal" on their air mask.

An air pack stands ready at the well site.

One unique aspect located at the well head is a device used on off-shore wells. The "blowout" protector can shear the drill pipe if necessary.

MacDonald also pointed out other safety features that have been added to the site. There are additional mud silos to provide heavier mud and "redundancy" in the gaser system.

One of the problems that led to the most recent Lodgepole blowout was the gaser malfunctioning. Amoco has installed two gasers on this rig, one for backup.

MacDonald explained they have "added redundancy to the rig" in areas "they know may have been a problem."

But if all their precautions fail Amoco does have a backup plan if a blowout occurs.

The emergency response plan for the Brazeau well include notifying all concerned parties, monitoring the movement of the sour gas vapors and a helicopter on stand-by for evacuation.

The plan also includes specifics on how rig personnel would assist in "isolating the hazard area." This points out locations of roadblocks and checkpoints to keep unauthorized people from entering the dangerous zone around the well.

Should anyone be missing or the level of sour gas reach levels near 20 parts per million the well will be ignited, the plan adds.

One concern with a blowout is the levels of sour gas near the well. As Hollie Zuurro, Amoco's public affairs officer, pointed out the sour gas levels are "not instantaneous." Zuurro added that they would have "a lot of time" to clear the area and monitor the wind direction.

But Zuurro is confident there will not be a blowout.

"It's not impossible but it's the next thing to it," says Zuurro.

The Yes Group. Western Ratepayers

Membership sales to raise needed funds

Dear Editor,

Regarding the possible formation of a new county, I was involved in the attempt to form a new county in 1975 and 1976. I was not involved with it the time before that or the time before that.

The Department of Municipal Affairs for Alberta has now initiated a feasibility study into the possibility of forming a new municipal district, county or otherwise, from the west ends of Parkland County, the County of Leduc, the County of Wetaskiwin and a portion of ID 14. I am still convinced that they will find it economically viable but perhaps not politically attractive.

A group of county residents, myself included, interested in seeing the formation of a new county become a reality, have banded together under the chairmanship of Bob Booth. I am presently vice-chairman. We call ourselves The Yes Group, Western Ratepayers. Our aim is to see established a new county in the Drayton Valley area. The last time we tried to form a new county we had a great deal of support all across the three counties and ID 14. We made the attempt without any money, not even any for stamps and advertising. This may not have been the reason we failed but it certainly didn't help us any.

This time we are selling memberships in the Group, both for a count of supporting people and a need to have some money for essentials. They will be $2 each and we hope to sell 1,500 to 2,000 memberships.

There may be public hearings held by the Department of Municipal Affairs, there likely will be. As a group we will certainly hold general meetings around the proposed new county. The government has not proposed boundaries yet but are studying an area generally bounded by Alder Flats and Buck Lake on the south, Breton to the east, Tomahawk and Seba Beach in the northeast, Evansburg, Entwistle to the north and Wildwood, Cynthia, Lodgepole to the west.

People that are interested should be vocal and become involved in the group. Very little is known at this time, a preliminary school study has been completed. An economic study on the area should be completed by early September. Hopefully the department will recognize us as an interested group and communicate directly with us on these matters, as they do concern us.

We will attempt to keep everyone informed of progress by way of news items in this paper, letters such as this and advertising.

I hope there will be a popular response to the membership campaign.

Yours truly,
Dene Meraw, vice-chairman,
Yes Group, Western Ratepayers

Friendly visitors

Support Services volunteers sought

The Alberta West Central Health Unit is looking for volunteers to spend two to three hours a week as volunteers in the Support Services program.

The volunteer services trying to be established and developed at this time include friendly visiting, handyman services and volunteer drivers.

Friendly visitors are volunteers who do community visiting. Services a friendly visitor can give to elderly and disabled persons include friendship, reading, writing and mailing letters, shopping, arranging for repairs and doctor appointments, conversing, etc.

A handyman volunteer position includes chore services and home maintenance services and general help with upkeep and repair work on yard and house for the client.

Volunteer drivers simply take clients shopping or to the doctor, etc. as the need requires.

Volunteers fit into the Coordinated Home Care Program which was established so that Albertans could receive medical and support services while living at home. Elderly and handicapped people do not always require hospital care. The alternative of care in the home offers advantages of less disruption to the patient's treatment, the support and presence of family members, familiar surroundings and flexibility of routine. All these factors contribute toward a more rapid recovery from illness or a better adjustment to aging or a handicap. Clients are given the opportunity to remain at home through this program.

The volunteer program is being established in Drayton Valley and Evansburg, and through the cooperation of FCSB in Wildwood, friendly visitors are setting up there as well.

Volunteers, possibly yourself, can get an enormous sense of self-worth through the help you are giving to others in need. Furthermore, interested young people who need job experience may also use volunteer time as a reference on resumes. Anyone who is interested in volunteering now or in September, can contact Crystal Detertag at 542-4416 in Drayton Valley or at 727-2288 in Evansburg.

Complex can upgrade

A change in some government rules may allow the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex to upgrade various facilities for senior citizens.

There has been an improvement through the Nursing Home Acts which will now allow for more enrichment programs, said Bob Wilson, director of finance and support services at the hospital.

"We're reviewing (the changes) now," he said, adding the hospital will likely be making applications to the government later. The changes should "enable the staff to be able to provide better care," explained Wilson.

County group sells memberships

The Yes Group, Western Ratepayers have launched their membership campaign.

The Drayton Valley based group is spearheading the drive for a new county. Memberships are only two dollars each.

"I'd like to see between 2,000 and 3,000 memberships," says chairman Bob Booth. "I see a lot of immediate support. No one has turned me down yet, which is a good indication," Booth added.

The last time a group attempted to form a new county they had 1,400 signatures on a petition.

For that reason, the Yes Group, Western Ratepayers feels it's very important to sell memberships to show their actual support.

"I don't see any opposition to a new county. Maybe later, although I don't see a reason," Booth stated.

Any member of the Yes Group, Western Ratepayers is available to speak to groups in the proposed area. If you want to know more about the benefits of a new county, contact Bob Booth at 542-4415.

The county group isn't planning a general meeting until they have some answers from the government who is currently doing a survey. The educational portion of the survey has been released with the municipal and financial study due in mid-September.

In the meantime, the group's major concern is the sale of memberships. They are available at 15 outlets in Drayton Valley, Poplar Ridge, Violet Grove, Cynthia and Lodgepole (see the ad in this week's paper).

Thompson does 'a dozen' rodeos per year

Stock contracting channels interests

By Lorne Christensen

For Howard Thompson rodeo is a way of life. But instead of riding, Thompson has channelled his rodeo interest into another area — stock contracting.

Thompson owns about 100 horses and about 30 bulls, all part of his rodeo stock contracting business.

Thompson supplies stock to about "a dozen" rodeos a year and has been in the business since 1979.

"It's a good way to go broke," he smiles.

That is one of the reasons why Thompson can't predict if he'll be in the business for more than a year at a time.

"It's a one-year-at-a-time sort of thing," he explains.

He points out that the season is too short and if there was "seven months of rodeo" he might "break even then."

But supplying rodeo stock has become a way of life for the rancher near Tomahawk.

His wife, Suzanne, and his four children spend their summer going to a rodeo and preparing for the next one.

He hires his trucking to transport the animals to and from the rodeos because it is "too costly to own one."

He also points out that it generally takes two liners to do a rodeo.

In addition to supplying the animals to a rodeo Thompson also supplies the officials — the pickup men, timers, announcer and secretary.

He is paid a "contract price" for each rodeo and says his busiest time is in August when they go every weekend.

But each animal does not necessarily go to each rodeo.

"Does that go here miss the next (weekend)," he explains.

Usually he takes about 30 horses and 15 bulls to each rodeo because as he says "they all eat the same so they all do something."

Thompson supplies stock to rodeos on the Wild Rose, Lakeland, Northern and Foothills Cowboy Association circuits.

"Mostly we do Wild Rose shows," he adds.

They begin the summer season with the first rodeo in May and then go until the end of September with the finals coming in October.

He says he gets his stock from "everywhere."

Thompson's horses flock around the back of his truck trying to get all the grain they can reach.

"You never know where they'll come from," Thompson said, "some you think won't buck and they do."

Last year two of his bulls placed fifth and seventh in the world at the Ponoka Stampede.

This year he didn't take any down to Ponoka. The average life in the rodeo circuit for a horse or bull can also vary.

"Some of the horses here will buck for 20 years, they have made it their job."

Thompson buys about 40 head of horses a year to add to his stock and he raises his own bulls now.

he says he has three favorite horses, Brown Sugar, Mouse Trap and Half Breed.

"I got all of them from my dad," he adds.

They still have about 20 horses and six bull that they started with back in 1979.

When he started Thompson says he only planned to have about 60 horses but it didn't take long to build up once he "got going."

Most of the rodeos he supplies are two-day events.

But Thompson is in the business for more reasons than just loving rodeo.

"It's a good thing for the kids, they get their highs on those horses," he said.

Possibly coming up Thompson will be putting on a rodeo for a nurses' convention that is coming to Edmonton. About 700 nurses from all over the world would attend the one-day rodeo that Thompson is hoping to host at his rodeo grounds near Tomahawk.

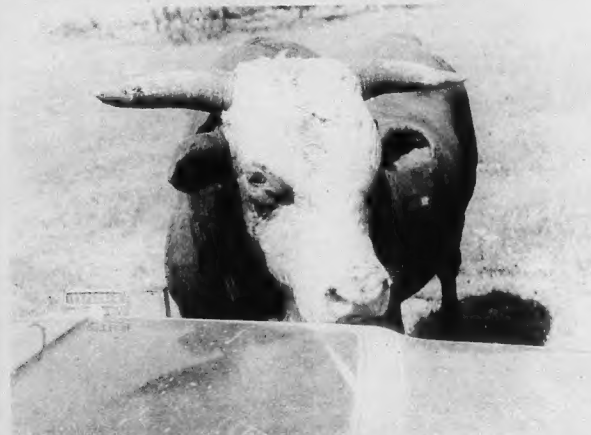

But for now he is concentrating on the local upcoming rodeos.

"It takes up most of the summer," he adds, "the summer gets away from us pretty fast."

Oilers take two at baseball tournament

The Drayton Valley Oilers won two major awards at the rain-delayed Lee Darragh Memorial baseball tournament last weekend.

The Oilers won the A side of the two-day tournament at Drayton Valley's West Valley Park with a 7-1 win over Peers Boss Truckers in the final. The victory was worth $225 while Peers collected $125.

And the Oilers' Chad Allen was selected as the tournament's most valuable player. The 18-year-old centre-fielder had a home run and made a sensational shoe-string catch in the Oilers' 5-0 semi-final win over the Easyford Colts.

Due to a three-hour rain delay Sunday morning, the B final between the Breton Royals and Warburg Rams will be played at a later date.

Pitching was a key factor in the Oilers' tournament victory.

They rested their pitching staff on Saturday when they won by default, when Alexis failed to show for a scheduled game.

Don Zimmer hurled a seven-hitter in the 5-0 win over Easyford. He got some bat support from catcher Parry Mohn who drove in the first run with a triple and Gerald Dusterhoff's three-run single. Allen finished the game with a home run and a single.

Back-to-back three-run outbursts in the second and third innings were all the run support Dusterhoff needed in going the distance on the mound in the final. The veteran pitcher limited Peers to three hits, including a seventh inning home run by Mark Adamson.

Ken Baird, the Oilers' shortstop, had an impressive tournament. He had a two-run homer in the final and figured in seven put-outs after eight assists in the Easyford contest.

Peers advanced to the final with a 10-0 win over tournament host D & S Drillers Sunday and a 5-3 win over Breton in the tourney opener.

A six-run second inning after a three-hour rain delay led Peers to their five-inning win over the Drillers. The abbreviated game was called in the fifth when Peers added four more runs.

The game was played in sloppy conditions due to the early morning rain. During the delay members of the Drillers spread several loads of sand on the field so play could resume.

The Drillers staged a dramatic come-from-behind effort to win their first game 8-6 over the Peers Hotrodders on Saturday. The hero was relief pitcher Pat Darragh, who came on in the first inning, with his mates trailing 4-1. He limited Peers to one hit and struck out eight the rest of the way. He also contributed two hits.

In other first-day action Easyford, on the strength of Dave Bennardson's grand slam home run, edged Warburg 11-10 and Breton edged Peers Hotrodders 4-3.

Eight home runs were hit during the tournament with $20 worth of gas donated by ICG going to Bennardson for his big game-winning blow.

The Oilers also won the relay race held prior to the opening day games.

Umpire Gordon Bligh of Edmonton handled all the games behind the plate. Helen Darragh sponsored the A event trophies with ICG sponsoring the B side hardware.

Mini-triathlon at Seba Beach

If you can swim, cycle or run - this is for you. It's even better if you can do all three, but not a necessity for the Seba Beach Mini-triathlon on August 10th.

Andrew Millar, Seba Beach's recreation director, says interested people can enter in the "solo-event" or compete as a team with one person doing one of the three events.

The mini-triathlon will consist of a 500-metre swim, then a 15-kilometre cycle and finally an eight-kilometre run.

Millar says the majority of the event will be around Seba Beach with the cycling part going almost to Lake Isle and back.

The only rule for the teams is one of the members must be a woman.

Millar said they are also "hoping" to get CHED radio out for the event, but that is unconfirmed.

He expects the race will last about an hour but possibly two hours "depending on the skill."

Participants do not have to be residents of Seba Beach.

The final registration date for the event is August 8.

Lions and town paint bleachers

The painting of the rodeo bleachers at Fort Valley Park was a joint project of the Lions Club and the town.

The Lions Club, who are very concerned about maintenance concerns and costs at the park, contributed $1,000 for paint while the town supplied students through the STEP program.

Work on the project started last week.

The painting of the rodeo bleachers is the first of several joint projects the Lions and the town are looking at.

Mayor Bob Mayhew, recreation director Calvin Bennfield and town manager Manny Deol met with the Lions Club recently to discuss matters of mutual concern.

Besides the painting of the rodeo bleachers, the joint meeting discussed holding pens, new washrooms and fencing.

Town council is most interested in establishing a line of communication with other clubs and organizations.

Cartwrights will play provincials

Amando and Fernando Cartwright will play in the mosquito baseball provincials this weekend in Sherwood Park.

The Cartwrights, members of Drayton Valley Tutoring, have been added to Sherwood Park's roster for the playoffs.

This past weekend they played with their new mosquito mates at the inter-zones at Fort Saskatchewan.

They beat Peace River 19-3, Edmonton 11-1, Fort Saskatchewan 16-4. They lost 10-0 to Fort Saskatchewan before beating them 23-7 in the final game.

Drayton Valley Tutoring was earlier knocked out of the playoff race by Sherwood Park.

Showmanship does count

The importance of showmanship should not be overlooked in competition, was the advice from an agriculture fair judge.

With the agriculture fair coming in August, George Shewchuk of Edmonton, came to Drayton Valley last week to speak on showing house plants and vegetables.

He was the district agriculturist for Spirit River and Lamont for about 35 years before retiring. During the last 40 years, he has been a gardener and show judge.

The very first thing to do is follow the prize list, a handbook on what categories of competitions are open and recommendations on presentation, he stated.

Shewchuk stressed showmanship is also an important part of going for first prize.

Even the vase used to hold a flower or arrangement should visually agree with the contents.

"It always makes a flower look better to match it somehow," Shewchuk commented.

If a category calls for several of one thing, such as potatoes, then any entries which are slightly different than the rest should be placed in the least noticeable position, said Shewchuk.

A book he recommended for reading is the Judging Standards For Horticultural Shows. However, he pointed out any local books on a show would give the final word on what is wanted. Shewchuk warned.

Apathy forces rec cancelations

The Parkland County Parks and Recreation department has had to cancel a number of programs recently due to poor response.

Theatresport, a unique and hilarious combination of the worlds of entertainment, booked for Drayton Valley last Thursday didn't draw one application.

Earlier, a one-day soccer clinic with a fee of only $5, also booked for Drayton Valley, had to be cancelled because just two players registered.

And, there's a danger an archery course scheduled for Aug. 8 at the H.W. Pickup School in Drayton Valley will have to be scrapped as no one has signed up.

Dawn Green and Doug Frost, summer recreation coordinators with the county, are very concerned.

"We find it frustrating," Green says.

"The programs are reasonable, only $5," Green added.

Green and Frost stepped up their publicity and even contacted drama teachers in the area for the theatresport, but still no results.

They are keeping their fingers crossed that kids will sign up for the soccer instruction. For this, brochures were sent out to sports shops and personal contact has been made. As of this week, a soccer clinic at Stony Plain had six entries and Drayton Valley didn't have any.

Not all their programs have been cancelled.

Cattail Capers has proved very successful. These four-day shops around the county have been getting good response. Three programs are scheduled for August at Fallis Hall Aug. 6-8, Violet Grove Hall Aug. 12-15 and Rocky Rapids Hall Aug. 19-22.

The program starts at 10 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m.

Painting up the town

Shelly Reynolds, with the town's parks paint on trees recently, they had just and recreation department, sprays trimmed the trees.

Salfi won't say if he'll run

Alex Salfi may "surface" again. That's how Salfi describes the chances he'll run for mayor again in the next election. Salfi, branch manager at Drayton Valley's ICG, says he will "stay active in town affairs." "From time to time I surface," Salfi adds. But for now the native of Eston, Saskatchewan will continue managing ICG and continue being very active in local clubs. Time is the biggest problem for Salfi, who is also president of the curling club, involved heavily with the Lions and commissioner of the Oilfield Baseball League and is a former town councillor. Because of his involvement with so many groups, including the group that is trying to form a new county, Salfi says he would have to "evaluate" his work load before considering running for mayor. "I would have to talk to my family," the 42-year-old adds, who with his wife Rhoda has six children. Salfi came to Drayton Valley "about 15 years" ago with ICG, a company he has been with for 23 years. One of the reasons why he has been in town so long is that ICG is continuing to grow. When Salfi first came to manage the business they had only two employees. That figure has now ballooned to 24 and expansion is continuing at the fuel sales centre. "We are putting in a computerized card lock system, it will give out customers 24 hours access to fuel," Salfi explains. The "Kardgard" system as it's called will be in operation in about two weeks and it should make billings "easier and more accurate." Salfi pointed out that he spends about 12 hours a day working including meetings that make a "long day." "Drayton Valley has been good to me, I've enjoyed every minute of it." "I've made this community my home and I want to be active and do the best I can for it," he explains.

Trynchy opens Centennial Park

By Hazel Winfield
325-3956

Wildwood celebrated Canada Day with a parade lead by the Wildwood Legion and Auxiliary, followed by the ladies of the Royal Purple, clowns, decorated bikes, cars and horses and riders.

MLA Peter Trynchy cut the ribbon to open the Centennial Park. Ruth Pratt represented the Right Hon. Joe Clark. A cheque was presented to manager Brian Howe for improvements and a huge cake was cut and passed around.

The ladies of the Royal Purple worked in the booth serving hot dogs, coffee and pop. A ball game was enjoyed and children made use of the new playground equipment.

The Erickson reunion was held in the community hall recently. They made use of the Donahoe school for parking, visiting and meals.

Mrs. Leakvold and her cousin from the United States enjoyed a trip to Victoria, B.C. and visited relatives in the States.

About 40 relatives and friends of Ann Brouse gathered in the Wildwood Senior Citizens' Centre to wish her a happy 87th birthday. Her sister, Julie Rabby of Drayton Valley Extended Care, enjoyed the outing.

Ellaine Ried had her family visiting. Mary Beauchamp had some of her family visiting. They also visited at Grandma Eva Anderson's.

Visiting at the Abbie Winfields were Mr. and Mrs. Laramie of Chilliwack, B.C., the George Kingseots of Hanna and Pat Desmond and daughter Sherrie, of Taylor, B.C.

Don't forget the Wildwood Agricultural Fair on Aug. 16. The parade starts at 11 a.m. at the Wildwood school. Pancake breakfast will be served at the Wildwood Complex from 8 to 10 a.m.

The Bruce Tindalls enjoyed a trip to Saskatoon.

Baby boom in town

All has not been quiet at the Drayton Valley And District Health Complex.

A baby boom at the hospital has occurred during the summer slow-down. And the maternity staff let Bob Wilson, the director of finance and support services, know all was not so peaceful after he told The Western Review there was less activity at the facility.

"I had a notice on my desk saying 'who says it's been quiet,'" commented Wilson.

There were 10 babies born at the hospital about the time the previous report came out, he said.

Profitable hobby

"Junk yard" artist paints local windows

By Lorne Christensen

Kelvin Vickrey got his start in a junk yard.

But now he turns dull windows into a work of art and makes life-like paintings on walls and vehicles.

For Vickrey, of Drayton Valley, painting is just a hobby. A hobby that he practised at by painting old cars in the junk yard.

Vickrey says he "considers it a hobby, a fun hobby that is profitable too."

His work has graced local store windows for the last two years mainly when "special events", like the Evergreen rodeo, come to town.

He calls Drayton Valley his hometown after returning here from Kelowna two years ago.

Vickrey estimates he has done about 80 murals and more than 20 windows in town.

"I've done any from walls to vans, boats, bikes, you name it," he explains.

He got his start in the business from doing air brush work for a T-shirt firm he was involved with.

Vickrey's work on a local Corvette.

Vickrey went from this to painting murals and cars, and now for the last two years painting windows.

"I learn by observing everybody, I go to a lot of shows," Vickrey says.

"If someone comes to me with an idea, I go through this catalogue and pick something out," Vickrey points out saying "a lot" of his work is reproducing.

Vickrey adds that he prefers animation over the fine art for his window paintings.

He explains that it is the "child in everyone" that makes them laugh at his animated figures, one of the reasons he prefers animation.

But painting windows isn't the only thing that the employee of Andex Oil does with his talents.

Vickrey says he has done everything from silk screening to sand blasting glass to making one-of-a-kind coffee tables.

"I try everything," he adds explaining he once made a wall waterfall out of driftwood and has made several coffee tables out of wood stumps.

But with his job and his hobby Vickrey jokes that finding time to sleep is hard.

"It takes up a lot of my time," Vickrey confesses.

Energy bus in town

Alberta's energy bus made another stop in Drayton Valley last week.

A two-man team spent two days doing an energy audit at the IGA store. The owner of the store, who also has the IGA in Rocky Mountain House, wanted the audit so he could compare notes on his energy consumption.

In April the EnerSave unit spent two days checking out the energy inefficiencies at the Frank Maddock High School in Drayton Valley and two years ago did an audit at the Shangri-La Lodge.

While their free audit at the IGA store remains confidential, the EnerSave crew were very impressed with the energy-efficient lighting being used.

The energy bus, which is a free provincial service for industrial, commercial and institutional buildings across the province, has made 700 audits in 4 1/2 years.

The EnerSave van which visited Drayton Valley last week, is one of two units travelling around the province attempting to get caught up on a three-month waiting list.

Requests for an audit can be made through the Energy Conservation Branch in Edmonton.

Evansburg/Entwistle area changed over the years

by Donna Haukedal

Johnny Billa has seen a lot of changes in the Entwistle and Evansburg districts. From the time when walking across the narrow railroad bridge hundreds of feet above the Pembina River was the most convenient way to get from one town to the other, to the present highway system.

Born in Sutton in Ashfield, England in 1911, Johnny came to Canada at age seven. His father had been killed during WW 1 so his mother brought the family of seven to Entwistle, where her parents and brothers and sisters lived. It was an active area mainly because of the coal mines.

In 1919 Johnny started school. There were 18 students. They spent the winter of 1920 in Edmonton, and in 1921 his mother remarried.

Johnny's stepfather had a homestead at Drayton Valley, and worked in the Evansburg mines over the winter, which meant that the family switched schools twice a year. At that time classes in Drayton Valley were held from April to Christmas. Whereas Entwistle had the present system. "We went to school all year for three years with no holidays," says Johnny. Since the family lived at Drayton from spring until November and the rest of the time at Entwistle, Johnny was not able to begin or end a term at either place, and the teachers would not pass them the one half-grade. Every time they moved, the children were put back into the same grade. "It was very discouraging," says Johnny. Plus there was no holiday. So he gave up the idea of any further education after Grade 5.

Johnny worked at Drayton Valley until he was 22. Then he went to work for an uncle in Entwistle for $10 a month, then to Evansburg to work for another uncle for $20 a month. The next year he went to B.C. and got a job working on a farm for $15 a month. In the spring of that year his salary jumped to $25 a month at Campbell River where he worked for a gardener and fishing guide.

He came home in 1936, and married in 1940. A daughter, Minerva, was born to him and his wife. She is now Mrs. Menzies and lives in Edmonton.

Johnny started barbering in 1939 and joined the army in 1942. The next three years he spent overseas. When he returned he earned his official barbering certificate and has been at the job ever since. His wife died in 1963.

He now keeps his business in Entwistle open three days a week, and is otherwise semi-retired, living in Wildwood with his wife Hilda, whom he married in 1980.

Hilda was born in Beverly, Sask. in 1915. She came here as a church deaconess in 1941, and continued with that until she married in 1943. Her husband had a store in Wildwood which went through transitions from general store to hardware and building supplies, and eventually a gift store. They had three children — two sons, Leonard and George, and a daughter Ann. In 1960 her husband had a stroke and died the following year.

Johnny and Hilda Billa

Hilda then took over the store and operated it for about 16 years. She also served a few terms on town council.

Johnny and Hilda are active members of the community churches in both Wildwood and Entwistle. Together they have a total of 10 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

There are experiences concerning the old railway bridge that Johnny will never forget. His mother won a photograph and 100 records, (the cylinder kind). But she had to go from Entwistle to Evansburg to get them. An aunt went along to help carry the prize home. Walking home across the railroad bridge the aunt carried the photograph and horn, while Johnny's mother carried the records with one hand while holding onto three-year-old son Dan's hand with the other.

Seven-year-old sister Winnie held Dan's other hand eight-year-old and Johnny was the last link in the chain.

There were spaces between the ties, and everything went well until Winnie slipped between two of them. There was no doubt of some frantic moments, but the boys managed to hold on to her until she could be pulled back up. "It was a pretty scary minute. If she'd have slipped from us she'd have been gone right out in the middle of the river," says Johnny.

Another incident which can be laughed at now but could have been tragic, happened the day that Johnny (by then about 14 years old) and a friend went down to the river. The friend had a type of sling shot and Johnny asked him how far he could throw a rock, to which the friend replied "over the top of the bridge". To prove his point the young fellow tried it. There was a man walking along the bridge. The boys noticed that the man stopped and then went on. When Johnny got home his mother asked him if he had heard what happened. She said a man had been walking across the bridge when something hit him, knocking his pipe out of his mouth and stunning him for a second. "Well, I said, that was Charlie's rock," says Johnny. It had shot almost 212 feet up from the river. The man the lad had hit was his uncle.

New facilities will allow jail visits

Prisoner visits are almost non-existent at the RCMP cells in Drayton Valley.

"We don't have any facilities," explains Cpl. Tom Turner.

"If the manpower is available, a member will stand with the visitor at the bars, but if no one is around we have to say no," Turner explains.

Turner made the comments in reference to a number of letters that have been received on prisoner visits.

While the RCMP usually have to say "no" to visitors at their present location, all that will change when they move into new facilities next month.

"Our new building includes a special room for visitors," Turner says.

The new building is slated for its final inspection July 28 with the move expected for early August.

God came down from heaven
And he walked among the flowers.

He stopped to pick the sweetest
And the sweetest one was ours
His golden heart stopped beating.

His body is now at rest
God looks our hearts to prove to us
He'd only take the best
Dear God forgive our silent tears.

Our constant wish that he was here.

Others are taken, we know
But he was ours and we miss him so.

Each time we see his picture
He seems to smile and say,
"Don't cry, I'm only sleeping
We'll meet again someday
But if tears could build a stair way.

And when memories build a stair
And bring him home again.

FAME

TRYING AGAIN — George Hamilton — remember him? — has been signed on for a special guest-starring role on "Dynasty" this fall. He's scheduled to make his "Dynasty" debut in the third episode and will play a "Svengali-like character."

Hamilton's career has been a long series of almosts and might have been. He was considered big-star material in the late '50s and early '60s and appeared in movies like "All the Fine Young Cannibals," "By Love Possessed" and "Where the Boys Are."

But Hamilton's slick good looks went out of style in the mid- to late '60s. Only his dates with Lynda Bird Johnson, then the first daughter of the land, and his widely publicized draft deferment (he claimed to be the sole supporter of his mother) kept him in the public eye.

After the breakup of his romance with Lynda Bird (who went on to marry Charles Robb, now governor of Virginia), Hamilton kept his career alive with television work ("The Survivors," ABC's 1969 big-name flop, in which he co-starred with Lana Turner, and "Pans 7000") and an occasional movie.

In the late 1970s, he staged a comeback of sorts, appearing in "Roots" and starring in the 1979 surprise hit "Love at First Bite" but his follow-up flick, "Zorro, the Gay Blade" (which will be shown this week on the CBS Friday night movie), failed to score at the box office.

Maybe "Dynasty" will finally do the trick. After all it's made a world of difference for Joan Collins, the former starlet who spent at least as many years as Hamilton on the fringes of stardom.

THE MUSIC MAN — Smokey Robinson's new five-part NBC weekly music series, "The Motown Revue Starring Smokey Robinson," premieres this week.

The emphasis will be on song Stevie Wonder, The Four Tops, DeBarge and Vanity are scheduled to appear as guests during the five-week run, and some of the shows will present nostalgic salutes to specific years, using news clips, montages and music to recreate the appropriate feel.
